GLAF “Out of Gallery” Exhibitions for February 2015

The Geneva Lake Arts Foundation is proud to announce the February 2015 “Out of Gallery” Artists of the Month. Lynne Railsback, GLAF Art School instructor for Botanical Water Color classes will exhibit her award winning pieces at the Lake Geneva Library; Sybil Klug will be the featured artist at the Town Bank at 567 Broad Street; and Patricia Barnes will display her artwork at LilyPots Fresh Flowers and Gifts located at 605 W. Main Street all in Lake Geneva.

Patricia’s biography states “I was born and raised in McHenry County and am currently living in Wonder Lake with my husband. I have always been interested in art. As a little girl I used to draw pictures of my father sleeping to surprise him. I took art classes in high school and loved them. I painted ceramics, clothing and anything I could get my hands on for years. Eventually I was introduced to watercolor, which has become the love of my life. It has such wonderful movement and brilliant colors. I enjoy painting lively colorful flowers, with brilliant backgrounds. I have recently been painting a series of Lilies in different colors and sizes. They have such interesting lines and colors.”

Patricia is a member of the Lakes Region Watercolor Guild and has taken classes at McHenry County College, as well as private instruction from Johanna Gullick and Bridget Austin. She won 2nd place at the NAAL Exhibition at the Woodstock Opera House in 2008 and has exhibited her work in local art fairs.

We are always looking for additional venues to exhibit and display our members artwork. If you have a business which would be interested in having our members exhibit on a monthly basis, please contact our Chairman, Sandra May at sfmay64@hotmail.com.
